

Monsters In My Milk

Writer

Robert Harris

Publisher

ScribeSlice 2011

[Multiple Shots of Pele]

Pele was a peculiar cat.
 He had no home.
 Unable to walk, he didn't venture far.

[Shot of him dreaming]

He dreamed of leaving the alley and seeing the rest of the city.
 However, the thought of being laughed at worried Pele.

[Rare view of Pele sitting, Wide view of the night sky, Milk bowl]

One mysterious night as the moon yawned and rocked back and forth.
 Pele sat gazing up at the sky.

[Shot of Pele on the ground, monsters in background]

Suddenly two monsters jumped up from his milk.
 Pele tumbled and bumbled on the ground.

[View of the alley underwater, milk splashing around]

Milk roared and flooded the alley.

[Shot of Pele surfing and falling of surfboard, Monsters surfing, Big Waves]

Pele surfed up and over waves of milk.
 But heights made him dizzy.

[Pele in his submarine, fishes, corals, monsters swimming, view of buildings in alley extends both above and underwater]

A submarine bobbed by.
 He explored the depths of the streets.

[Shot of monsters stealing treasure]

Those pesky monsters were up to no good.

[Pele in view in swimming gear]

Pele hated sharing his treasures.
 The streets can be very mean he thought.

[Shot of moon in bed]

Mean while the moon had fallen asleep.

[Shot of sun rising]

He didn't realize the sun awoke and peeked over the horizon.

[Shot of Pele in his milk bowl]

It never occurred to him he'd ventured far from home.
Pele was scared and wasn't sure where he was.

[Shot of Pele in his milk bowl]

Nothing around him looked like the alley.
He wanted to go home.

[Shot of shark attempting to eat Pele]

Was the alley left or right? Pele sailed left.
Mr. Shark wanted Pele for dinner.

[Shot of Pele sailed ashore on the street corner]

Pele was convinced nowhere was safe.
Suddenly he heard familiar sounds, what's that noise?

[monsters peeking at Pele from behind a garbage can. View of Alley]

It was the monsters. They grunted and growled.
Pele realized he was finally back in the alley.

[The monsters got Pele a pirate ship of his very own, They all celebrate dancing]

The monsters had a welcome home present for Pele.
The alley was not a bad place after all.

[View of the milk bowl tipping again]

Copyright Robert Harris (DarkLimitArts) @ 2011.

ScribeSlice